Effect Jan. 1, 2021, Bella's Act

will put an end to the sale of animals who have been bred in puppy mills

- Assembly Bill 2152, known as "Bella's Act," would ban the retail sale of dogs, cats, and rabbits, while allowing stores to partner with rescues and shelters for adoption events. The bill stops pet stores from receiving any money from adoption transactions or from using the store or its resources in connection with adoption events
- "With Bella's Act going into effect, we'll be able to end the inhumane retail sales of dogs, cats and rabbits in California once and for all," said San Diego Humane Society Chief of Humane Law Enforcement Bill Ganley.
